Dear FCC,I oppose this petition because it's obviously designed for the sole benefit of the ARRL. The "ARRL" claims to be the amateurs voice to Washington, and it has been for years. However with the advent of the internet and cellular telephones killing the once unique aspects of amateur communication, the arrl finds itself losing dollars and influence. It is this I believe that is responsible for the petition before you.

As I see it the only two beneficiaries from the proposal being approved would be the ARRL and various radio manufacturers. The manufacturers obviously would further enhance the ARRL's financial coffers by buying advertising space in its magazine. The ARRL's position is that the new license class would bring back amateur radio to more people. Bologny! How can one believe that with the reliability, cost and ease of the broadband internet and other commercial communications believe that this is anything but a financial move on the part of the ARRL.

I urge you to decline this and send a message to the ARRL, while a worthwhile organization, they can not just legislate more money in their coffers by using the access they've developed thru time.

Besides it will send the same signal to many in much the same way as changing the licensing requirement for the citizens band radios years ago.

Thank you,
Jesse
